

About the Editors and Contributors

Maria Fernanda Ariceta

Maria Fernanda Ariceta earned a bachelor's degree in Sociology from the Universidad Catolica de Montevideo and a master's degree in business administration from the ORT University in Montevideo before leaving her home country of Uruguay. She holds a master's degree in Public Administration from the Maxwell School of Syracuse University and is pursuing a master's degree in International Relations at the Maxwell School. She is interested in public reform in developing countries, especially in South America.

Gabriel Arrisueño

Gabriel Arrisueño graduated from the Law School of the Pontifical Catholic University of Peru and then worked as a lawyer at a private firm on matters concerning civil, tax, commercial and competition law. Additionally, Gabriel co-founded and worked with EDHUCASalud (The Civil Association for Health and Human Rights Education), a non-profit organization that promotes respect for human rights in the fields of health and education. He holds a master's degree in Public Administration and is completing a master's degree in International Relations, both from the Maxwell School of Syracuse University.

Ashok Barnwal

Ashok Barnwal is an officer in the Indian Administrative Service. He has coordinated the government service delivery system in rural areas in the central province of Madhya Pradesh for more than ten years. He has worked in the fields of education, health and watershed development. He is working on a master's degree in Public Policy and Management at the Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore. He also has participated in the Executive Education Program at the Maxwell School of Syracuse University. Currently he is Additional Secretary to the Chief Minister of Madhya Pradesh in India.

Gwyneth Blevins

Gwyneth Blevins has experience ranging from technical project management to coaching girls sports. Her interests include facilitating communication and conflict resolution across organizational cultures. She holds a bachelor's degree in Women's Studies and Policy Studies from Syracuse University. She has just completed a master's degree in Public Administration at the Maxwell School of Syracuse University, where she focused in security studies and foreign policy. She is working as an analyst for the United States Government Accountability Office.

Robert Borders

Robert Borders has served in a variety of command and staff positions and participated in numerous operational deployments as a career U.S. Army officer. Most recently, he served as a forward-deployed budget officer in the Middle East in support of Operations Enduring Freedom and Iraqi Freedom, and as a Vietnam Team Commander with Joint Task Force-Full Accounting, an organization charged with the fullest possible accounting of missing servicemen and women from the war in Southeast Asia. He holds a bachelor's degree in Geology and a master's degree in Administration from Central Michigan University. He holds master's degrees in Business Administration and Public Administration from the Whitman and Maxwell Schools of Syracuse University.

Michael Curtis

Michael Curtis is a Department of the Army civilian. He is a recent graduate of the Army Comptrollership Program at Syracuse University, receiving both a Master's of Business Administration from the Whitman School of Management and a Master of Arts in Public Administration from the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs. He also holds a Bachelor of Science degree in accounting from the University of Maryland at College Park.

Ashok Kumar Gupta

Ashok Kumar Gupta belongs to the Indian Administration Service and has worked primarily in the Ministry of Health and the Ministry of Industry. He is presently working as Special Secretary, Finance in the State of Tamil Nadu. His interests include reforms in the industrial and health sectors. He holds a bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering from Delhi University and a diploma in management from Indira Gandhi University, and has recently completed a master's degree in Public Administration from the Maxwell School of Syracuse University.

Jaime Kelly

Jaime Kelly has worked in language education in China and women's rights advocacy in Malaysia. Her interests include non-profit management, intercultural communication and negotiation, and applied dispute resolution and conflict management. She holds a bachelor's degree in Anthropology and Political Science from McGill University and is completing master's degrees in Public Administration and International Relations at the Maxwell School of Syracuse University.

Stephanie Lundquist

Stephanie Lundquist has worked with the women's officer at Amnesty International in London. Her interests include gender and development, American politics and public administration. She holds a bachelor's degree in Social Relations from Michigan State University and a master's degree in Public Administration from the Maxwell School of Syracuse University. She is currently completing a doctorate in Political Science at the Maxwell School.

Laura McKechnie

Laura McKechnie has worked in development and communications in the non-profit sector in Washington, DC and in Latin America. Her interests include micro-credit and economic development, public sector reform as well as women's health. She has a bachelor's degree in Journalism from the University of Maryland and is completing master's degrees in Public Administration and International Relations at the Maxwell School of Syracuse University.

Sarah Ungerer

Sarah Ungerer is a financial consultant working for Public Financial Management in Philadelphia. She holds a bachelor's degree in Economics and International Relations from the University of Pennsylvania, as well as a master's degree in Public Administration from the Maxwell School of Syracuse University.