Winners of the Eleventh Annual E-PARCC Teaching Case and Simulation Competition

PARCC is pleased to announce the 2018 winners of the annual E-PARCC teaching case and simulation competition. Selected cases and simulations are now available online. Congratulations to this year’s winners:

THE WINNER OF THE GLENDALE E. AND ALICE D. WRIGHT PRIZE FUND FOR CONFLICT AND COLLABORATION CASE STUDIES IN INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Case: “David Green- Delivering Quality Eyecare in the Developing Countries through Collaborative Systems.” By K.B.S. Kumar and Indu Perepu, IBS Center for Management Research (ICMR).

FIRST PLACE WINNER

Case: “Combat and Collaboration in Seattle’s Historic Minimum Wage Debate” By Erik H. Houser, Daniel J. Evans School of Public Policy and Governance, University of Washington; Craig Thomas, Professor, Daniel J. Evans School of Public Policy and Governance, University of Washington; Stephen B. Page, Associate Professor, Daniel J. Evans School of Public Policy and Governance, University of Washington.

HONORABLE MENTION

Simulation: “Epidemic- A Community Health Collaborative Simulation.” By Heather Getha-Taylor, Associate Professor, School of Public Affairs and Administration, University of Kansas.

SPECIAL MENTION

Simulation: “Model EU-European Council-European Agenda on Migration.” By Noam Ebner, Professor, Negotiation and Conflict Resolution (NCR) Program, Department of Interdisciplinary Studies, Creighton University; Alexandru Balas, Director, Clark Center for Global Engagement and Assistant Professor of International Studies, SUNY Cortland; Andreas Kotelis, Visiting Instructor at SUNY-Cortland; and the EU Delegation to the U.S.

E-PARCC, a project of the Maxwell School’s "Collaborative Governance Initiative," provides free online resources for those who teach collaborative public management, networks, governance, and problem solving around the world. Visit E-PARCC.org to see all previously published cases and simulations.